Our Learning

This week, we started our geography unit which focuses on the UK. In shared reading we were introduced to key vocabulary that we will use next week.

In maths, we started our new unit, negative numbers. We focused on understanding negative numbers and counting in 1s and multiples.

In English, we started our non-fiction unit on balanced arguments. After completing our own research, we held class debates on whether screen use has an effect on children's learning and wellbeing.

Next week, we will recap previous knowledge on tectonic plates, terrain and climate zones and applied it to our knowledge of our own island!

In maths, we will continue with negative numbers, but with a focus on comparing and ordering negative numbers and finding the difference.

In English, we will continue writing effective sentences for our balanced argument, in preparation for writing our own balanced argument.

We took part in a class debate about screen time and wellbeing.

PSHRE Focus: In PSHRE this term, we are on our last JIGSAW unit 'Changing Me' where we will learn about self-image, puberty and coping positively with change. Towards the end of the unit, we will start preparing ourselves for the year ahead by focussing on building healthy relationships and learning the skills required to develop resilience, assertiveness and self-respect.
