Our Learning

This week, we explored our local area and made geographical comparisons between Slough, Cadgwith, Glen Coe and Bakewell.

In maths, we continued with our new unit which we started at the end of this week, Converting units. We further explored imperial and metric units.

In English, we wrote our own balanced argument, on one of the following questions:

Are we too dependant on computers?

Would life be better without technology?

Can robots replace teachers?

We kept our arguments balanced by using research that helps us to form points, both for and against!

Next week, we will start our science unit on plants and animals. Here we will explore the differences and similarities between the animal and plant kingdoms.

In maths, we focus on practical lessons connected to metric and imperial units..

In English, we will start our new topic, power of reading with a focus on a new book called "Street Child".

We celebrated Arts Week by looking at the work of Edvard Munch and Frida Kahlo.

PSHRE Focus: In PSHRE this term, we are on our last JIGSAW unit 'Changing Me' where we will learn about self-image, puberty and coping positively with change. Towards the end of the unit, we will start preparing ourselves for the year ahead by focussing on building healthy relationships and learning the skills required to develop resilience, assertiveness and self-respect.
