Our Learning

This week, we baked our adapted bread designs and evaluated how successful our recipes were. We also began a unit of work in art lessons to study the life and work of the Mexican artist, Frida Khalo.

In Maths, we explored how pie charts can be used to share data and have begun to look at angles. Each class also took part in a 'Puzzle Workshop' as part of our celebration of STEM Week. In our English lessons, we published our non chronological reports about endangered and extinct animals.

Next week, we will be continuing to look at the work of Frida Khalo and will be creating some self-portraits inspired by her style.

In Maths, we will be exploring shape with a focus on how to classify and measure angles accurately.

In our English lessons, we will be researching and writing a report about Mayan life.
