Our Learning

This week, we began a new History unit learning about the ancient Maya.

In English, we continued our work on non chronological reports.

In Maths lessons, we began a unit to further develop our knowledge of shape including how to calculate perimeter, area and volume.

Next week, we will be learning about how the Maya farmed and how their favourite foods compare to those we eat today.

In English, we will be carrying out some research and planning a non chronological report on endangered or extinct animals.

In Maths lessons, we will continue to focus on shape by looking at how to calculate volume. We will also be exploring the topic of statistics and how data can be represented and interpreted using different types of charts and graphs.

We are learning about the ancient Maya in our history lessons this week.
